

For this Coding class you will need your own Windows computer, and you will need to download the latest version of Python from this website. The course is actually written for Python 3.2, but there have been many releases since then. Most of the syntax is identical.